Dear Antonio Park Families,

100 Days At School
Last Monday the Preps celebrated 100 days at school. It was lovely to see the wonderful outfits the students and staff were wearing. We had a lot of mums and dads who helped on the day... thank you! Well done to our wonderful families for the work they did (very creative!) in dressing their child up for the day and thank you for providing the food so the Preps could celebrate this special milestone with a wonderful lunch. A big thank you to our Prep teachers Elizabeth Alda, Mitch Newman, Rachel Fittolani and Stacey Gamble for their organisation and contributions to this very special event!

Aerobics Performance
In preparation for the National Aerobics competition, last night APPS held an Aerobics performance for school community members, extended family and friends. It was wonderful to see the students perform. The students' enthusiasm, co-ordination, energy and pride was impressive. This special fundraising event was held to support the students who will be competing at the Nationals in Queensland on the 6th August.

Farewell
Good luck to Lachlan and Emily F who are leaving APPS to live in America for some time and Amos and Bethany H who have moved house and will also be leaving APPS. We have valued you and your families being part of APPS community. You are leaving us with many fond memories. Wishing you all the best at your new school.

House Athletics
Next Tuesday we are looking forward to our House Athletics. There is an enormous amount of planning and organisation for this event. Thank you to Ben Clark, our Level 3 & 4 teachers and support staff. It is always a most successful day because of our staff commitment, the wonderful support from families and especially the enthusiasm of our students.

Book Fair
This week we are once again lucky enough to have the Scholastic Book Fair in our Library. Thank you to Ashlea French for all her hard work in organising this special event.

Visiting Authors
On Tuesday, we were very lucky to have Michael Wagner and Wayne Bryant visit our school to present their new book ‘So Wrong’. The students were able to get involved in role playing and learning about the illustration process of publishing a book. Thank you to Kylie Sandidge for organising such a great incursion.

Congratulations to everyone celebrating a birthday this week.

“Ahoy me hearties”… Our production is well underway. Classes are rehearsing and costumes are in the process of being finalised. Hayley Grindley our Performing Arts teacher is co-ordinating our Production team whose behind the scenes jobs comprise of:

PARENT LIAISON PROGRAM
Do you know your child’s class parent liaison? He or she is the wonderful parent from your child’s class who has volunteered their time and efforts to liaise with the teacher and send you email reminders and information about school life.

In 2015 our Parent Liaison (PL) program was in trial mode. This year the program has been running since the start of the year with fantastic results. We have just completed a teacher survey and a parent liaison survey both about the Parent Liaison program, which yielded very positive results. Our teachers absolutely value their PLs who “make their life easier” and “keep them on track” (quotes from teacher surveys)

Some of the roles and responsibilities of the PLs are listed here:

- Communicating and advocating school information to other parents within the class and creating a sense of community
- Acting as a key contact for relevant information on behalf of the teachers
- Distributing information such as:
  - Parent helper rosters
  - Fete information
  - Invitations to school and class social events
  - Last minute reminders such as dress up day, excursion notes, interschool sports, etc.
  - Production assistance
- Introducing new families to the school.
- Sharing photos of school events (only where consent has been obtained)

If you are not receiving emails from your class parent liaison, or if you have any questions about the program, please let your child’s teacher know. We don’t want you missing important and current information. Of course, school information is always in this newsletter, but there are often reminders about class or school activities that the parent liaison will send you, especially during Production time (NOW!!!)

We have two parents, Ange Heathcote and Caitlin Porter who assist Tim and I to coordinate the PL program. There are also four Level coordinator PLs who receive and distribute information just pertaining to their level – they will be busy this term during Production. So have a look who your PL is in the table below. Well soon have a photo of them on each classroom door so you can say hello next time you see them!

Have a great weekend!
Tim and Annette

What’s Happening in Level 1?

What a wonderful week we’ve had in Level One! On Monday everyone looked sensational in their ‘100’ dressed up. There were many creative and fun ideas and they were proudly presented during the whole school assembly. Well done to those brave students who spoke in front of the school! We continued the celebrations with a wonderful lunch. There was bucket loads of delicious food, which was very much enjoyed by lots of hungry little mouths. The Level One teachers and students would like to say a big thank you to all the parents for providing the yummy lunch and a special thank you to the mums and grandparents who helped at the party.

On Tuesday we had a visit from Michael Wagner, a great Australian author of books including Pig Dude, Bear Make Den and Why I Love Footy. We were fortunate enough to have Michael share some of his stories and discuss the process behind writing a book. He was extremely entertaining and he was a real joy to listen to!

What’s Happening in Level 2?

As our inquiry unit ‘Good Sports are Healthy’ enters into its third week, we look forward to our next series of weekly rotations. This Thursday, your child’s teacher will be presenting information to the grade about a particular sport and students will be involved in an activity that reinforces this information. Next Thursday, each grade will move to another Level 2 classroom to learn about a different sport. These rotations will continue each week until the end of Term.

Thank you to all the families who have brought to school their child’s permission form/envelope, medical form and payment for Level 2 swimming, which begins soon. Please remember to bring these to school, if you haven’t done so, by Friday 5th August. It’s going to be great!

The Level 2 students finished their maths focus on money at the beginning of the week and are now looking at time measurement. Students will revise their understandings of ‘o’clock’ and ‘half-past’ before moving on to ‘quarter-past’ and ‘quarter-to’ when they are ready. The teachers will be talking about the connection between analogue and digital time over the next two weeks and there will be lots of opportunities for the students to measure ‘time’. For example, students will be asked to calculate how long it takes to do certain tasks in a minute and will no doubt, be surprised by their results! Students can log on to Mathletics using their username and password to complete activities that will strengthen their understandings of time or they can play online games such as ‘Bang on Time’ which is always popular with Level 2 students.

In literacy sessions we are finishing off our comprehension focus on ‘Analysing and Critiquing’. They have been reading many texts and using their developing skills to identify the main message or idea that the author wants them to gain after reading. Next week, we will be looking at ‘Synthesising’. For this reading comprehension skill, students will reflect on how their thinking changes as they read. They will come to learn that when they combine all of their reading comprehension skills, they can develop new ideas and understandings about texts.

On Tuesday morning, the Level Two students went to the P.A.C to meet Michael Wagner, an author and illustrator of children’s books such as Bear Make Den and Dog Wars. Michael read a few of his books to the students and spoke to them about how he gets ideas for his stories. It was a fun and rewarding session for the students and many had their copies of his books signed.

The students went to the library today to preview some of the wonderful books that are part of this year’s Book Fair. Your child will be keen to show you their ‘wish list’ and there is also a ‘wish list’ for your child’s grade. You can order books online (just follow the instructions that are on the notice) or bring your payment on Monday. This is when the students will be able to purchase from the Book Fair. If you have any questions, please see Ms. French. She has done an amazing job of coordinating this special event.

Enjoy your week!
The Level Two Team.

Our very exciting book fair is currently underway. Today the students had the opportunity to have a look at the books and create a ‘wish list’. On Monday 1st August they will get to go back and purchase books that interest them. There has been other notes sent home which contain specific information. Monday is also a dress up day; come as your favourite book character! Hope to see you all dressed up!

This week out spelling focus has been Kk, aw and au. Next week it will be Yy and we will look at words where ‘a’ makes an ‘ar’ sound e.g. fast and bath. In maths the focus has been on the number 100 and next week it will be on 3D shapes.

Have a great week!

What’s Happening in Level 3?

On Tuesday the Level 3s and 4s attended an author visit from Michael Wagner and illustrator Wayne Bryant. Michael Wagner presented his book ‘So Wrong’ to the students and Wayne Bryant ran an illustration workshop. All students thoroughly enjoyed the experience and had a fantastic time.

Book Fair
The book fair will be held this Friday the 29th July. Today students will attend the book fair preview where they will be able to browse the books they would like to purchase. Tomorrow students will have the opportunity to purchase these books.

What’s Happening in Level 4?

Three weeks into Term 3 and Level 4 are in full swing, working hard to reach our goals in all areas of the curriculum. Each week is filling up with extra activities and preparation for our wonderful whole school production. Please read the newsletter and the Level 4 homework sheet to check on important dates and upcoming events.

On Tuesday we had a motivating visit from author Michael Wagner and illustrator Wayne Bryant. The Level 4 students were keen to be part of the book launch for Michael’s new book ‘So Wrong’. Michael and Wayne spoke to the students about their background and how they collaborate in order to put a book together. The students were also lucky enough to have a chance to share their opinions about an upcoming book that Michael and Wayne are writing. There was a lot of laughter in the room and plenty of smiles as the students got a preview of what ‘So Wrong’ is all about.

The second session was spent with Wayne Bryant, as he demonstrated to the students how he sketches his characters. He described and revealed ways that the students can show emotions in their drawings. Then the students had a chance to work with their peers and practice drawing characters with different emotions. Again, the room was filled with laughter. Level 4 were all eager to try their new drawing skills and discuss what they had learnt back in the classroom.

Next Tuesday 2nd August is House Athletics Day. The students are encouraged to wear their house colors, to show their support. It is important that everyone wears appropriate clothing for the day. If this week is anything to go on, jackets, hats and gloves would be a great idea for when the students are waiting for their event.

We are learning about what synthesizing is and how to use this comprehension strategy in our Literacy sessions.

It has been great to see the students’ thinking shift as they read, listen or view new information in our literacy and inquiry sessions.

If there are any girls that are interested in being part of a girls Football team, please see Mr Clark by next Monday.

From the Level 4 team.

ICAS SCIENCE

Those students who participated in ICAS Science will be presented with their certificates at assembly on Monday.

SCHOOLS NATIONAL TREE PLANTING DAY, FRIDAY, 29th JULY

Antonio Park PS has proudly participated in this event for many, many years. This year the Environmental Leaders will again be helping plant an area of Antonio Park with the volunteers of the Park Advisory Committee and myself. Each child should have received a note at the beginning of the week. Classes will be planting, mulching and tidying an area of our school gardens during their art sessions next week – depending on the weather of course! If your child would like to bring along garden gloves, change of shoes, small shovel, bucket they are more than welcome to but not necessary. Sunday, 31st July is the community National Tree Planting Day so check out your local community or Council groups to see if you can help plant an area of this wonderful community around our school.

Enjoy the weather – we do need the rain and just over a month until Spring!

On Tuesday we were fortunate enough to have Michael Wagner and Wayne Bryant visit to present to us their new book ‘So Wrong’. Our Level 3 and 4 students were introduced to Mitey Mikey and some of his exploits amid a lot of laughter. Two students were called upon to do some impromptu acting of ‘Mitey Mikey: A Romance’ which was very entertaining. They then spent time with Wayne doing an illustration workshop focusing on drawing faces and emotions. Meanwhile, Michael was running a story time session with Level 1 and 2. It was such a fantastic opportunity to have them visit APPS and we hope your kids have come home with a new enthusiasm for reading and lots of stories about their experience.

If you are still interested in purchasing a signed and personalized copy of ‘So Wrong’ or a few of Michael’s other titles then please complete the order form and return it to school by Wednesday 10th August.

Library News

During the Book Fair we will be running the Classroom Wish List program. This program is designed to expand classroom libraries via donation. Parents can choose to donate a book to their child’s classroom by selecting one from their grade’s classroom wish list. Alternatively parents can choose to make a cash donation towards one of the books by selecting a contribution slip from the classroom wish list table. You can then fill in a bookplate to place onto the inside front cover of the donated book so that the grade knows who it is from. It is a nice way to help boost literacy resources in your child’s grade.
Apps to Help Keep Track of What Your Kids Are Doing Online

Though open communication is best, these tools can help parents who want a little extra control.

Christine Elgersma Senior Editor, Apps Mom of one 7/4/2016

As kids become more independent, we want to foster their sense of responsibility and give them room to prove themselves. But it can be difficult to navigate this natural separation, especially when kids are doing who-knows-what on their devices. There are constant questions: Where are they? Who’s contacting them? What are they doing online? Since tweens and teens are often tight-lipped about their lives, it can be tricky to get clear answers.

Though direct communication is always best, and the conversations around online safety and digital citizenship should start long before a kid becomes a teen, there are occasions when parents feel it's necessary to monitor what kids are doing on their devices. Maybe they've broken your trust or you're worried about their safety. Whatever the case, there are tools to track what your kid is up to. Be aware that spying on your kid can backfire and that kids can find a way around just about any type of tracking. But if you're at the end of your rope or just need extra help managing your kid's digital life, then one of these tools might work for you. To get more information, check out our advice about cell phone issues, including basic parental controls, and less invasive (and expensive) ways to limit access to content.

Bark: Similar to VISR (see below), kids and parents need to work together to hook up accounts to the service. It also analyzes all device activity and alerts parents when a problem is found. If they get an alert, parents will see the content in question and get suggestions on how to handle it ($9/month).

Circle Home and Go: This app manages the Circle with Disney device, which pairs with your home Wi-Fi and controls all Wi-Fi-enabled devices. Can create time limits on specific apps, filter content, set bedtimes, and restrict internet access for the whole house or for individuals. Circle Go will let parents filter, limit, and track on networks outside the home Wi-Fi (the Circle device is $99, the Circle Home app is free, and the Circle Go service will be $9.95/month).

Limitly: If screen time and specific app use is your concern, this system might work for you. It lets you track your kid's app use and limit time using the device or certain apps (free, Android-only).

Pocket Guardian: Parents get alerts when sexting, bullying, or explicit images are detected on your kid's device, though you won't see the actual content or who it's from. Instead, the alert can prompt a conversation, and the app offers resources to help ($9.99–$12.99/month).

Trackidz: With this program, you don't see specific content from your kid's device, but you can track app installations and use, block browsers and apps, manage time in apps and on the device, block out device-free time, grant bonus time, track location, get an alert when your kid's phone is turned off, and see your kid's contacts. It also claims to detect cyberbullying by tracking when your kid's device use drops dramatically, which can indicate avoidance. Setting up a geo-fence lets parents track a kid's location and alerts them when a kid has gone outside the boundaries, and a kid can tap the power button to send an emergency message to parents (currently free, but will be $6.99).

VISR: For this one to work, a parent needs the kid's usernames and passwords, so be aware that it's easy for kids to set up dummy accounts. Once enabled, the tool analyzes posts and emails for bullying, profanity, nudity, violence, drugs, and late-night use and sends parents alerts when anything iffy is detected (currently free, but will be $5/month).
We are now in full production mode. All of the grades have begun learning their dances and the main cast have been attending lunchtime rehearsals. Each week at assembly, in the newsletter and through parent liaison emails we will be keeping the APPS community up-to-date with important information!
